

Government takes governance and people's rights to their doorsteps

Aapke Adhikar Aapki Sarkar Aapke Dwar

*is an innovative program to ensure that the people
avail the benefits meant for them*

The Government of Jharkhand organised 'Aapke Adhikar Aapki Sarkar Aapke Dwar' to commemorate the birth anniversary of Bhagwan Birsa Munda and two years of the State government. It started on 16 November, 2021 and ran till 29 December, 2021. The aim of the program was to connect people to various government programs running in the state. It was observed that though the government was running numerous programs, the people in rural backward regions were unable to benefit from these programs due to lack of knowledge and reach. The government came up with an innovative concept of taking the government to various panchayats to overcome this obstacle. In this way, governance would reach the doorsteps of the people.

It started from Ulihatu village in Arki block of Khunti district, which is the birthplace of Bhagwan Birsa Munda. During the programs, various camps were organised in at least 4-5 panchayats in every district every day where the government could provide solutions to various problems of the general public through its schemes like Awas Yojana, ration card, PDS, scholarships, Birsa Harit Kranti Yojana, among many others. Along with this, asset distribution among the beneficiaries of the welfare programs was run by the government like Phulo Jhano Aashirwad Abhiyaan. RF and CIF funds were distributed among various SHGs in different districts of the state. It was ensured that the needy were able to benefit from the government schemes through quick action. Palash stalls were organised to promote the products made by rural women. Many government officials visited the Palash stalls and appreciated the work of the rural SHG women.

In total 35,95,581, applications were received, of which 31,61,50 applications have already been disposed of while 4,34,080 applications are in process. Most of the applications were regarding Awas, PDS, health and nutrition. Due to COVID-19, many could not access any government benefits like PDS, pension or scholarship. But now they have been benefitted from this initiative of the government.

On 16th December, Chief Minister Shri Hemant Soren participated in the mega loan, asset, grant and appointment letter distribution program organised under the "Aapke Adhikar, Aapki Sarkar, Aapke Dwar" program at Chaibasa in Kolhan division. On this occasion, assets worth more than Rs 43 crore were distributed among 5 lakh 34 thousand 752 beneficiaries of West Singhbhum, East Singhbhum and Seraikela-Kharsawan of Kolhan division. On the occasion, Parvati Mardi of East Singhbhum received a demo cheque of Rs 10,000 under Phulo Jhano Ashirvaad Abhiyaan. Along with this, a demo cheque of Rs 5.47 crore was given to the Asha Mahila group of Khuntpani block of West Singhbhum, through which 1607 Sakhi Mandals were provided community investment fund. In the program, information about various projects being run under JSLPS was provided to the villagers through stalls setup at West Singhbhum, East Singhbhum and Seraikela-Kharsawan. RD Minister Shri Alamgir Alam was also present at the event.

Workshop to make Jharkhand witch-hunting free

The goals of the Garima Project revisited and consolidated action plan discussed

JSLPS is working hard to eradicate witchcraft from 7 districts of the State through Garima Project. The project aims to establish a civilized society and provide a dignified life to every woman by eliminating social evils like witchcraft through the economic and social development of the women in the areas affected by these evil practices.

Through this initiative, work is being done to connect the victims of witchcraft in the state to the mainstream through counselling, legal aid, psychological counselling and other assistance. So far, around 933 women who were victims of witch-hunting have been identified in the state. Around 438 identified victim women have been linked with various means of livelihood through the Sakhi Mandal. Around 567 identified women have also been provided counselling.

To address this social evil, on December 21, 2021, a two days' workshop was organized by JSLPS, RDD at SIRD Hehal, Ranchi, to make Jharkhand witchcraft free. The workshop on witchcraft-free Jharkhand was inaugurated by Dr Ravi Ranjan, Chief Justice of Jharkhand High Court and Chief Patron of JHALSA.

The objective of this workshop was to make people aware of the core values of the project and mainstream the women who are victims of witchcraft. The project is making people aware of this social malpractice and trying to establish a civilized society by giving a dignified life to every victim. It aims to eliminate social evils like witchcraft through economic and social development in the areas affected by witchcraft.

Addressing the workshop, the guest of honor, Chief Justice of Jharkhand High Court, Dr Ravi Ranjan, said that even in the 21st century, inequality and discrimination against women continue through witchcraft, which is sad. Lack of awareness and education encourages such malpractices. We should prepare school children as brand ambassadors to end witchcraft. They will be our awareness ambassadors in the village. All the departments together need to improve education, awareness, and health services in every village, and there is a need to empower women in every village. Work is being done through JHALSA to root out such social malpractices across the state. JHALSA will also play its role in this initiative of the Rural Development Department. He also talked about making people aware of the laws against witchcraft to know their rights, and everyone can get justice in society. He congratulated the Rural Development Department and JSLPS for this event.

The workshop turned out as a great success as many legal issues were addressed by the chief guests of the event regarding witchcraft. The joint effort of JHALSA and the Rural Development Department, GoJ, made the workshop a success. It has also given a platform to the victims to raise their voices against the evil practice.

Other guests kept their views that JHALSA is constantly trying to end witchcraft practice and such workshops will be a milestone in this direction. They added that the education and legal information must reach the people. JSLPS and JHALSA together can work to end witchcraft practices. Many laws have been made in the state to end the evil practice of witchcraft, and JHALSA is working to make people aware. It is hoped that work in this direction will also move forward through this workshop. They instructed to make Padma Shri Chhutni Devi the brand ambassador of the Garima Project to encourage other victims to come forward to end this social evil.

Secretary, RDD, GoJ, Dr. Manish Ranjan, said that, “ the statistics of witchcraft incidents in the state are shocking. There is a need to end this evil practice from rural Jharkhand. Through this workshop, various stakeholders working against witchcraft will formulate a common strategy. Giving information on the Garima project, he said that in the coming days, under the project, about 5000 women who are victims of witchcraft in the state would be benefited. Under this project, other help, including legal and mental counselling, has also been made to the victim women.”

Chhutni Devi, who has been honoured with Padma Shri for social work on witchcraft, shared her story in detail while addressing the program. She shared that the village people tried to kill her after branding her as a witch. Today, she has brought about 145 other victims branded as witches in their village into the mainstream. She further stated that in the coming days, thousands of them will be accessible in the state and by 2023, the state will be free from witchcraft.

A street play was also performed by the Sakhi Mandal members of Simdega district, demonstrating the issues related to witchcraft and how it is dealt with in rural areas by Badlao Manch and by the interference of community institutions.

In continuation of the workshop for the second day, several technical sessions were organized to create witch-cult-free Jharkhand. Keeping in mind the need for coordination, education and awareness of various departments and shared strategy, various experts spoke.

In the closing ceremony of the workshop, CEO, JSLPS Smt. Nancy Sahay said, “ that this workshop would play an essential role in implementing the Garima Project and the eradication of witchcraft from the state. Awareness work will be done in each village through the members of Sakhi Mandal, and efforts will be made to work on the common strategy for all the stakeholders.”

National Workshop on the launch of INTEGRATED FARMING CLUSTER

Dignitaries praised the development efforts in the state and urge other states to adopt the Best Practices

National Workshop for the launch of Integrated Farming Cluster (IFC) Initiative was organized on 24 December 2021, at SIRD, Ranchi. The Union Rural Development Secretary, Shri N.N. Sinha, launched the IFC programme in the presence of Shri Charanjit Singh, Joint Secretary, MoRD, Govt of India, Shrimati Nita Kejriwal, Joint Secretary, MoRD, Govt of India, Mr. Ved Arya, National Convenor RCRC, Dr. Manish Ranjan, Secretary, RDD, Jharkhand, Shrimati Nancy Sahay, CEO, JSLPS and delegates from several states.

Jharkhand's Didi Bagiya scheme should be implemented by other states as well

Shri N.N. Sinha praised the state's efforts to empower people through Sakhi Mandals. He urged officials from other states to implement Jharkhand's programmes, such as the Livelihood Resource Center and Didi Bagiya Yojana, in their states also.

Shri Charanjit Singh explained the objective of the programme to provide farmers with an "end to end solution". He appreciated Jharkhand's Palash and Adiva brands and advised other states to learn from Jharkhand's approach.

Expressing satisfaction over the progress of NRETP, Smt. Nita Kejriwal said that the model CLF should be strengthened by expediting the work. She discussed the model CLF strategy, financial inclusion including NPA trend in NRETP states, digital finance, insurance, venture financing, agriculture livelihood and key priority sectors and asked the states to achieve the target within the stipulated time frame.

Integrated Farm Cluster (IFC) will strengthen the livelihood of the members of Sakhi Mandal

Secretary, RDD, Dr Manish Ranjan said that the income of women has doubled due to drip irrigation and multi-cropping. He also said that capacity building of various cadres through training, empowering financial inclusion of PVTG families and connecting women with various skill activities are our priorities that will boost rural livelihood. At the same time, efforts are being made to take Palash's products and Palash brand to a more significant level by linking them with agriculture-based livelihood. He assured that steps are on to strengthen the livelihood sustainably.

Sakhi Mandals will get the benefit of Integrated Farming Cluster in the state

While addressing the workshop, Mrs. Nancy Sahay, CEO, JSLPS, said that the implementation of IFC would be complete in time. With this initiative, women of Sakhi Mandal will get opportunities to join various means of livelihood and work will be done to increase their income.

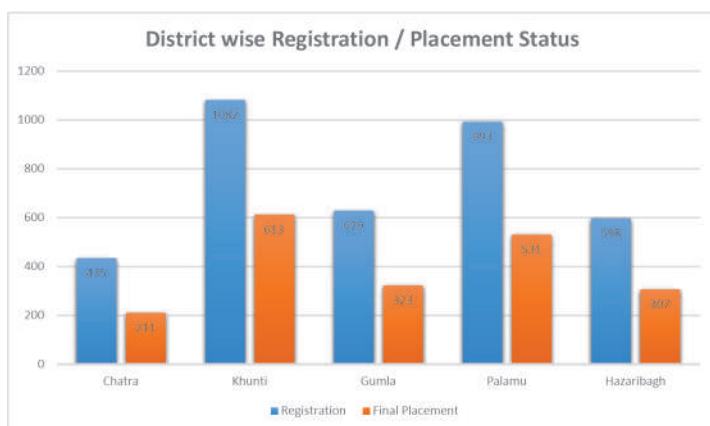

In this workshop, The Changemaker, a booklet on success stories, Aajeevika e-bulletin 100th issue and booklet on success stories of MKSP farmers were released by the dignitaries. Various stalls were also set up on Livelihood Mission, JOHAR, Drip Irrigation, Financial Inclusion, Development of PVTG Families, Palash and Adiva Initiatives. The main objective of launching IFC is to promote sustainable and multi-dimensional livelihoods under NRLM. IFC's primary goal is to make the best possible use of all the farmed land and enable farmers to undertake a variety of livelihoods simultaneously, such as farming, animal husbandry, fruit production, bee-keeping, fish farming, forest produce, and so on. Farmers will be able to make full use of their resources, their costs will decrease and their production will grow if they farm with this approach. IFC is environmentally friendly as well and it will increase the farm's fertilising capacity and enhance employment possibilities.

1985 candidates placed in the first round of job fair

Major companies representing various industries attended the fair and tapped the vast pool of workers

This winter brought some warm greetings for some families across the state. Under the banner of Azadi Ka Amrit Mahotsav, job fairs were organised in five districts of the state. A one day event held at Chatra, Khunti, Gumla, Palamu and Hazaribagh districts, where jobs were offered to the rural youths with educational qualifications between 8th standard to graduation. Jobs were offered in various industries, including Apparel, Electrical & Electronics, Automobiles, Security services, Pharmaceuticals and other Manufacturing and allied service industries. District wise Registration/ Placement Status is as follows:

During the district level event, hiring agencies from across the country were invited and students were mobilised from the extreme rural pockets of the districts. During the event, 12 major companies conducted the hiring process. It turned out to be a positive program for the recruiters and the candidates as they got an opportunity to choose from a vast pool. Details of the various agencies that participated are as follows: Taking the statistics of five districts, altogether 3737 candidates turned up and against this 53.12% of candidates got their final offer letter. The placement figures by the end of December 2021 were 1985 candidates.

Many people who were unemployed due to the pandemic got the opportunity to revive their jobs in a synchronised manner. Nettur Technical Training Foundation grossed the highest number of candidates by hiring 286 candidates.

The program was inaugurated by various public representatives and district level officials by lightening the lamp. State and district level officials also participated in the program to make it a grand success.

Backyard Poultry initiative for PVTGs

PVTG families are beating the odds to become financially empowered through Udaan Project

PVTG families of Jharkhand reside in rough terrain where agricultural-related livelihood activities are challenging to practice. Hence, to bring them into the mainstream of development and enhance their economic condition, livestock promotion and practices like Backyard Poultry (BYP) have been started under project UDAAN. Under this project, last year, 3000 PVTG households (HHs) were targeted to be provided pure desi breed chicks along with drinker-feeder and supplementary feeds.

Following the target, around 1200 PVTG households have been provided 24,000 pure Desi Breed of BYP Chicks in 15 blocks of 9 UDAAN targeted Districts. The main reason for distributing desi chicks breeds is that they are more resilient to the local environment and can adapt themselves to any weather conditions. Each PVTG beneficiary has been provided 20 chicks in a unit, a drinker feeder and 20 kg supplementary feeds. The beneficiaries have also been provided training related to shed management and hygiene in and around the BYP shed.

The PVTG Cadres (PCMs/MCMs) play a vital role in selecting beneficiaries and providing the basic BYP management training to them. PCMs are helping the beneficiaries build the BYP Shed and are generating awareness among them related to various diseases for which the chicks need to be checked at regular intervals.

With healthy BYP practices, PVTG beneficiaries are doubling the number of chicks and enhancing their income towards sustainable livelihood. The Project aims to provide around 10000 PVTG beneficiaries with the Desi BYP units in this financial year.

Amazing things happen when a woman holds the reins

Meena Devi is a resident of Siram village in Peshrar block of Lohardaga district. Meena is associated with Chanda Aajeevika Mahila Self Help Group since 2018.

Before joining the SHG, her financial condition was not so good. She always wanted to do something for her family by becoming financially independent and also she wanted to help her husband in running their household expenditure. After joining the SHG and meeting with other women she was inspired to join the group.

Meena took a loan of Rs 5,000 from her group and opened a small hotel at Chandni Chowk of Siram village where she used to make samosas, dumplings, savouries, tea, etc., which helped generate an income. However, it was still insufficient to run the family, thus, Meena thought of exploring other livelihood opportunities. She commenced a small grocery shop. After few days, Meena bought a paddy pulverizing machine taking a loan of Rs 10,000 from the group. Her husband would take this machine from village to village. After some time, she bought an electric flour mill machine and began helping her husband in the work.

The income from the flour mill machine and paddy pulverizing machine is about Rs 20,000 to Rs 30,000 per month. From the grocery shop and her small hotel, she earns about Rs. 4000 to Rs 5000 per month.

Today, Meena Devi's total income from all her livelihood activities reached beyond her expectations and now from these multiple livelihoods, the total amount she is earning is about Rs 3 lakhs annually.

Before starting her business, she along with her husband used to migrate to other states but now with a stable business of her own, she has emerged as an entrepreneur in her village and is leading a comfortable life with her family.

Today, Meena is leading a happy and financially sound life and sends her child to an English medium school. According to her, she along with her husband are expanding their business with another loan through the group. Meena says she is grateful to the SHG and JSLPS for their constant support and encouragement.

Sakhi Mandals join hands to reach new heights

Bishunpur block of Gumla district has been among the under-developed blocks in the state. The basic necessities of the rural folks are primarily dependent on the traditional and rain-fed form of cultivation. Apart from this, the usage of chemical fertilizers and pesticides has been a common trend. In order to bring a positive change in cultivation patterns and to facilitate the Sakhi Mandal women of the Bishunpur block, training in organic farming was provided to them.

The Sakhi Mandals of Bishunpur Aajeevika Producers Group collectively took 50 acres of land on lease and cultivated pea. The women farmers chose the land of Karamtoli village for cultivation as this plot existed beside the bank of a perennial river. 18 members of the PG utilised their take aways from the training and practised the technique of organic farming and used the fertilisers and manure in accordance with the standard Package of Practices.

The overall investment made in farming was Rs 45,000. As a result of following the standard procedure, they have sold approximately 5000 kg of peas at an average price of Rs 31/kg. Till date, they have earned a profit of Rs 1.10 lakh in a span of three months. The output is not yet over. Still, the women farmers of Bishunpur PG are extracting a production of 25 quintals after every two days of harvesting. The overall profit is estimated to be Rs. 12,500 per beneficiary.

The collectivisation of output helped the farmers sell their produce in one go, reducing their labour cost and enhancing their overall profit.

The PG is now planning to go for 100 acres of cultivation from the following season.

Growing more with less through JHIMDI Project

Sankari Kuntia has improved her income by growing better quality products using scientific methods.

Sankari Kuntia is a resident of Chirchi village of Tantnagar block of West Singhbhum. She is a member of Chameli Ajeevika Swayam Sahayata Samuh. Before joining the Self-Help Group, she used to carry out farming in the traditional way.

In 2017, she learnt about JHIMDI project from the Self-Help Group and decided to install it in her field. In the beginning, she installed the micro-drip irrigation system in an area of 25 decimal, where she started cultivating vegetables. She made the seedbed and prepared mulch as guided. She cultivated a good quality of vegetables, which inspired her to grow more crops. She produces up to 4 crops in a year in her MDI field. She has now also expanded the micro drip irrigation system over an area of 50 decimal, where she cultivates vegetables like ladyfinger, brinjal, cucumber, beans, etc. She invested up to Rs. 20,000 at the beginning of the year to prepare seed bed and mulching, enabling her to grow four crops. Earning an average income of Rs 20,000 from every crop in a year, she earns Rs. 80,000–Rs 90,000. Her husband, Krishna Singh Kuntia, is working as an Ajeevika Krishak Mitra (AKM) of the village and helping farmers grow crops in a better way. He is also assisting Sankari to grow crops scientifically, which is bringing good profits. Sankari uses the knowledge of her husband to produce good quality crops by using organic fertilisers and pesticides like neemastra, etc.

Sankari is now considered one of the progressive farmers of her village due to her zeal and hard work. She is always ready to learn new and better ways of farming and also encourages other farmers of her village to do so. Earlier after the harvest of the crop, she used to carry the produce to the market for selling. She did not have any means and had to spend much money just to take the vegetables to the market. Today that has changed; with the improved income from farming, she has now bought a Luna for herself, which she uses to take her vegetables to the market. There is always a demand for her vegetables as it is of better quality. She is now leading a happy and successful life. She is thankful to JSLPS and her Self- Help Group, whose intervention and constant support encouraged and motivated her.

Producers Group empowers women farmers

Provides funds, seeds and marketing to help her improve the output and earnings

Hathimanda is one of the villages in the Jhinkpani block of West Singhbhum. Situated close to the mountains and forests, the village is often attacked by elephants, which come in search of food and cause damage and destruction to the crops. Most of the farmers in this village are vegetable growers and cultivate paddy. Suman, who once supported her family by doing traditional farming, is now carrying out High-Value Agriculture under JOHAR Project.

Suman Kui is a resident of Hathimanda village of Jhinkpani block of West Singhbhum. She is a member of Jagriti Aajeevika Self Help Group and Hathimanda Mahila Utpadak Samuh. Through her SHG, Suman became a part of Hathimanda Mahila Utpadak Samuh of JOHAR Project. After becoming associated with the Producer Group, she came to know about better farming methods. To support farming among the members, the Producer Group provides money, seeds and marketing facilities to the farmers.

Today, with the help of the Producer Group, Suman invests Rs. 30,000–35,000 every year, earning an income of up to 1 lakh in a year. At the time of crop sale, she does not have to worry about going to the market or where she will get a reasonable price because the Producer Group provides a fair price for the crop at the market rate and buys it from her. With the help of the Producer Group, there has been an increase in her earning and there has been a change in the life of Suman and her family. Suman has four children and was always worried about their education. But after joining the group, her worries have subsided. With the income from farming, she has put her eldest daughter in an English medium school and is now preparing to send her eldest son to an English medium school.

Telling her story, Suman says that before becoming a member of the Producer Group, she was a traditional farmer, which brought income but in times of need, she had to depend on others for money. She would also worry about selling her vegetables and getting the right price for her produce. She had to spend much time in the market to sell her vegetables. Spending a lot of time in the market meant reduced time for farming, and the income from it was always uncertain. “From time to time, the Producer Group helps me in farming and provides information about crops and methods of growing them. She does not have to spend much time in the market now because the Producer Group picks up the vegetables from the field itself, and she is paid the market rate for it. Now she saves a lot of time, which she devotes at home and in the field. She is grateful to her Self-Help Group and JSLPS for their support and for helping her in her livelihood activity.
